GVRL – Gale Virtual Reference Library

GVRL is a library of online encyclopedias.

GVRL contains hundreds of encyclopedias and overview sources that touch on Biography, Business, Education, Humanities, Sciences, and Social Sciences.

While most professors will not allow you to use sources found in Wikipedia (an online encyclopedia) they are much more likely to approve of sources found in GVRL.

(Warning. It is always good to check with your professor – in advance – concerning the appropriateness of any source you intend to use).

To access GVRL:

1. go the Rod Library website (google: UNI Library)
2. click on the link Databases A-Z
3. choose “Gale Virtual Reference Library” from the very long list of databases
