Google Basics - intitle:

intitle: is one of the most powerful Google and Google Scholar commands you can use.

When you search Google using ... intitle:leprechauns

... only web pages with the word leprechauns in the title of the web page will be returned.

Important – all letters in the command intitle: must be typed in lower case.

Important – there should be no spaces between the colon and the word you are searching for (the word you want to be in the title).

Important – if you want to use Google to search for a phrase in the title of a webpage be sure to:

a. Put quotes around the phrase.
   b. Make sure there is no space between the quotes and the intitle: command.

Example – intitle:“laughter is the best medicine”

For more on Google Scholar see the “What You Must Know” guide - Week 2 – Google Scholar